In the House.

The House spent a long time discussing a resolution pressed by Republican members requiring the Goyernor to report what he has done, if anything, toward eliminating unjust freight rates. Democratic members charged Republicans with fillustering, and Mr. Harshaw replied that the Republicans were ready to adjourn now but "if the Democrats have gotten themselves into a hole and want to eat crow, why, we will stay here and see you eat it."

The House passed the bill preventing the merger of parallel competing railroads, with an amendment exempting roads of less than 100 miles.

Forsyth Members Urged to Work for Provision That Only Wet Towns Vote:

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

WINSTON-SALEM N. C. January 28.—Mr. M. D. Balley, Jr., vice-president of the Balley Bros. Tobacco Company, has sent a telegram to the Forsyth members of the Legisfature, protesting against the passage of the profibition bill before that body. The telegram to prohibition bill before that body. The telegram is as follows:

"Business interests here condemn prohibition bill as an act of cowardice and for political ambition only. They contend that if 95 per cent. of North Carolina has already voted dry it is unfair to allow them to participate in election; that it is like trying a case before a packed jury. They think further that is the opportunity that Charlotte and Greensbore have been waiting for on account of jesiousy of our prosperity. If this theory is made a law, it will injure interests here very materially. Try and get an amendment in to allow only wet towns to vote on prohibition."

DID NOT RUN THAT DAY.

hews, whose veracity has never has decided to return to work to-morrow. Captain Matthews says that the warning which appeared to him may have originated from an imagina-tive mind. However, he argues that it came to him so forcibly that the im-pression could not be shaken.
